Study Notes on Photosynthesis

Plants turn light into chemical energy. The green pigment Chlorophyll absorbs light, mostly red and blue wavelengths, which is why leaves look green to us.

A second paragraph explains where this happens inside the cell.

- Light-dependent reactions
- The Calvin cycle
- Glucose production

1. Water is split
2. Oxygen is released

Summary

Photosynthesis feeds almost every food chain on Earth.